CHAMBER NAMES
DAVIS NEW CEO

BY: BRUCE BONAR, Brisbane Chamber of Commerce Board Chair, bruce@brisbanechamber.org

After a six-month selection process, the Board of the Brisbane Chamber of Commerce has selected a new President and CEO to lead the organization. Madison Davis, Brisbane native and Mayor/Councilmember, has been appointed to succeed retiring President and CEO Mitch Bull. The appointment follows a lengthy recruiting and interview period, starting in June when Mitch announced his intention to step down in early 2019. The executive committee formed a search

7 MILE HOUSE IS STILL WHERE THE LOCALS GO
FROM TOLL GATE TO AWARD-WINNING RESTAURANT, SPORTS BAR, AND LIVE MUSIC VENUE

BY: PALOMA B. CONCORDIA, 7 Mile House, paloma@papalodown.com

By now you may have enjoyed a basket of lumpia, celebrated a special event, and had a few rounds of drinks while watching a sports game, or enjoyed performances by world class musicians. A Brisbane gem really, 7 Mile House seems to be untouched by the woes of most restaurants in the area. Surviving and thriving, its spirit is strong, and the drinks are too.

This year, 7 Mile House rang in 161, now with an award-winning book under its belt. Written by owner

THINK BRISBANE — KEEP OUR ECONOMY STRONG!

The best met the criteria for the position, as well as list was whittled down to the five candidates that candidates. Following telephone interviews, the committee and we posted the job description on multiple recruiting sites Zip Recruiter, Indeed.com, Craigslist and the chamber-centric website for the Western Association of Chamber Executives (WACE), as well as putting out the message locally through word of mouth to local chamber executives.

Despite the booming economy, interest was high in the part-time position and the committee received over 16 applications from interested candidates. Following telephone interviews, the list was whittled down to the five candidates that best met the criteria for the position, as well as were geographically located within the greater bay area.

The selection committee followed with outreach to the finalists and set up interviews. Although every person interviewed could perform the functions of the position, Ms. Davis stood head and shoulders above the other applicants with her broad knowledge of marketing, corporate outreach, social media skills and (obviously) her knowledge and commitment to the community and familiarity with the chamber. Through two sets of interviews, she showed a keen knowledge of not only the community in general, but also the “modern” business environment where social media, trend marketing and millennial outreach will be critical factors for organizations going forward. As a result, the search committee (Tamara Heath, Freddy Beaman, Teresa Montgomery, Dan Carter, Rich Borghello and myself) recommended unanimously to offer the position to Ms. Davis.

“I would have been easy for us to select a semi-retired, seasoned executive for the position and it would have worked, but all of us on the search committee wanted to find the best person that can lead the chamber and understand the unique needs and relationships that exist in our unique community,” said Dan Carter, who continued “Madison was the best candidate and handled all of the questions we could throw at her. Plus, no one we interviewed had the knowledge and experience of (Brisbane) that is critical.”

We researched the potential areas of “conflict of interest” and found out that the instances of elected officials serving as CEO’s of chambers or trade associations are not uncommon. Recently the cities of South San Francisco and Redwood City have experienced the same situations. We have met with city staff and legal professionals to discuss the parameters of the positions and the areas where potential conflicts can occur, and we are working to ensure that the rules and laws are strictly followed with board member business brought before an elected body such as the city council.

The Brisbane Chamber of Commerce has historically served only to bring information to the citizens during the political process. We do not ever support individual candidates or individual ballot issues. We work with the League of Women Voters to provide impartial forums for candidate during election cycles. Unlike other chambers, we do not have a Political Action Committee or such groups within the chamber. We exist to create an environment where the overall community, residential and business, can flourish.

I speak for the entire board when I say that we are excited and pleased to have found such a capable person to serve as the staff executive. We believe Madison will do a wonderful job in the position and continue to represent the best interests of the citizens of Brisbane. We welcome her to the chamber team and wish her much success during her tenure.

I would also like to take this opportunity to acknowledge our outgoing executive. Mitch has guided the chamber for the past 11 years and served on the Board of Directors for over 15 years prior to becoming the President/CEO in 2008. His work on our major programs such as Students in Business and Government; Excellence in Education, State of the City/County programs and the Annual Business Expo have really created a long-lasting link bringing our businesses and citizens together. He also remade the Luminary, turning a monthly newsletter into a true business and community journal that brings information to everyone in town. I also speak for the board when I wish him well on his reduced work schedule going forward. It has been a pleasure working with him.

While the change in day to day management will be something that we haven’t had for 11 years, we are looking forward to new ideas, and activities that we will implement together going forward.
Vanessa Garcia along with her cousin Regina Abuayan, they immortalized the history and personal stories so that 7 Mile House would always be remembered long after they’re gone.

Last year Vanessa spoke about the history of mile houses in the Bay Area, and presented book talks for “See You at the 7: Stories From the Bay Area’s Last Oral Mile House” at dozens of libraries, historical organizations, including: The California Historical Society, SF History Days, Brisbane Library, and the San Francisco Library (main branch), to name a few.

7 Mile House was featured on numerous print, radio, online, and TV appearances, and was awarded multiple accolades from the SF Weekly, SF Examiner, and a National Indie Excellence award for their book. They also raised thousands of dollars for local organizations through various fundraisers including their annual Adobo Cook-Off For A Cause.

It proved to be a knock out year, but also a year of sorrow, losing several, long-time, extremely talented musicians. 7 Mile House said goodbye to Don Alberts, Bobby “Spider” Webb, and Ed Serrano within a few months of each other. The most personal loss was the unexpected passing of Regina Abuayan, editor of the 7 Mile book and cousin of Vanessa Garcia. A memorial was held for her at the anniversary celebration on Saturday January 26, 2019.

The anniversary also featured a book talk and presentation on mile houses by Vanessa Garcia. Guests enjoyed their famous pork adobo and rice for free, now an annual tradition for the past six years.

In the evening, the 7 Mile House stage was graced by Dakila, a legendary Filipino American San Francisco band with music known as Bay Area RockLatinJazzPopFunkapino!

7 Mile House continues to be a place for us locals, a place where you can stop and have a good meal and cold beer, be treated fairly and with respect, where you’ll most likely leave with a smile on your face, maybe you’ll even find a new, on-going tradition for the past six years.

Bruce Bonar, Chairperson of Brisbane Chamber of Commerce, was selected after a lengthy search process, reviewed candidates, evaluated everyone, chose finalists, conducted more interviews and finalized the selection, completing the paperwork at the end of December.

I became affiliated with the Brisbane Chamber in 1990, when I started employment at Hitachi America, Ltd. on Sierra Point. Little did I know that I would be writing this column 29 years later. I served in a board member capacity for many of my 15 years at Hitachi. In 2008 I was selected after a lengthy interview process to serve as the executive for the organization.

During these (many) years, I have had a wonderful journey, I cannot list all of the wonderful board members who helped to make the experience as fun and rewarding as any chamber could be, but I consider many of them to be friends that I look forward to seeing at the annual Fall Mixer.

Bruce Bonar, Chairperson of Brisbane Chamber of Commerce, with Mitch Bull, President/CEO Brisbane Chamber

When I started employment at Hitachi America, Ltd. on Sierra Point, I was driven to make the company a better place. Although I will continue to serve the city in a limited capacity working on Economic Development projects, it will be different.

Instead of “we,” the chamber will be “they,” and I expect that we will take it a step further, to make the city a better place. Although I will continue to serve the city in a limited capacity working on Economic Development projects, it will be different.

I am very proud of what we have created as our way. I am also very proud of the Brisbane Chamber, its’ members and the citizens over these many years. Thank you.
Mandatory Commercial Organics Recycling

By Teresa Montgomery, Sustainability Manager, South San Francisco Scavenger Company.

Do you have a compost collection program where you work or go to school? If you don’t, Assembly Bill 1826 may require that you add one. Effective January 1, 2019, businesses that create 4 cubic yards or more of waste per week must arrange for organic waste recycling services. Organic waste includes food waste, landscaping trimmings, non-hazardous wood waste, and food-soiled paper waste. AB 1826 requires that all cities and counties report on business compliance.

South San Francisco Scavenger Company (SSFSC) can help businesses in Brisbane, South San Francisco, and Millbrae to implement a successful organics recycling collection program. Contact us by phone at 650.589.4020 or by email at info@ssfscavenger.com.

Recycling helps to conserve resources, reduce greenhouse gases and extend the life of landfills. It also helps create a healthy environment for our community and future generations. For more information on AB 1826 and other California recycling requirements, please visit www.CalRecycle.ca.gov.

Your Next Clubhouse?

We’ve been thinking a lot about what to do with the Baylands Project Information Center at 132 Visitation Avenue. Sure, we can host another educational program or mixer. Or, what if YOU use the space for your event or meeting? There are so many wonderful groups and efforts in Brisbane – San Bruno Mountain Watch, the MOB, SF Trains, and tons more. Switch it up and use our space! If you are part of a local effort, nonprofit or just a cool group of residents looking for a place to hang out – give me a ring! Do you need a place to organize your next fundraiser? Tired of using your living room for the planning committee? Or just need a place to unwind with a glass or two of wine? We have plenty of room, why not join us at the Project Info Center?! Of course, this is at no-cost. All I ask in exchange is the opportunity to host you. Currently, we are in the middle of a small make-over. Once we’re ready to open our doors in February, we look forward to having you over. To learn more about how to book the space, please see our ad on the back of this issue for more details. We can’t wait to hear from you!
on another hot summer day. He lived in the form of a fire hydrant down the street and my mom and I would paint him each year. I remember growing quite disappointed realizing hydrants in other cities weren’t painted, I couldn’t imagine them any other way but transformed into little people and animals. However, romping through Costafos’s “Raccoon” Canyon may be some of my fondest memories. We lived just a few doors up the street and after dinner we would beg my mom to take us down to play. We knew many, many native grasses. The community of Open Space and Ecology Committee, and San Bruno Mountain Watch, the health of our canyons has improved considerably. In 2017 the council funded an ivy removal effort in Firth and Costaños canyons. Then in 2018, the Park and Recreation Commission and OSEC worked together with Ariel Cherbowsky of San Bruno Mountain Watch to hold a native planting day in Costaños Canyon with plants sourced by Mission Blue Nursery. This year, I invite you to participate in another planting day on February 9th at Owl Canyon. Rain or shine, sign-in begins at 9-45am with planting to start at 10am. San Bruno Mountain Watch will provide host and nectar plants for the Mission Blue and Callie Silverspot butterflies including Silver Lupine, California Horkelia, Yarrow, California Phacelia, Franciscan Wallflower, California Dandelion, Coast Buckwheat, California Sheepburr, and a number of native grasses.

To ensure San Bruno Mountain and other habitats in California stay free of harmful invasive species, OSEC and city staff have drafted an application for State Senator Jerry Hill’s annual “There Oughta Be a Law” contest. The proposed law bans the sale of invasive species as identified by the California Invasive Plant Council and Plant Right’s “Priority Invasive Garden Plants” list at nurseries.

Although completely unrelated to the rest of this article, I didn’t want to miss the opportunity to extend my support to furloughed government employees. Thank you for your service and dedication. In partnership with the Brisbane Lion’s Club, the city will be hosting a drive for families in need of food and essentials during this time. If you are able to help our furloughed residents, please drop off any non-perishable food items along with personal hygiene products and essentials like toilet paper, paper towels, etc. to city hall or the senior center. Item distribution date, time, and location are still to be determined but will be publicized.

I am so thankful to live in and serve a community that cares so deeply. Each of your contributions makes Brisbane an even better place to live and strengthens our famous volunteer spirit. Though we be but little, we are fierce. Keep up the good work!

Last but not least, I love a good fun fact. Each month I will end my article with a Brisbane fact, here’s this month’s: Brisbane once appeared in Ripley’s “Believe It or Not” for the “world’s smallest store” which consisted of a tiny structure on a hill above Inyo street, owned by Mamie Burns. She operated a small shop, which she called Ripley’s “Believe It or Not”. The store was so small that customers had to stand outside and call inside for items. The store was open from 1926 to 1942.

On February 23rd at 10am I have the pleasure of welcoming our raccoon back to his rightful place. Thanks to the city council who approved a replacement and our Park and Recreation staff who tracked down the artist’s widow and original mold, we will now have an exact replica of our raccoon friend. I hope you will join me during this unveiling and welcome him home for future children to enjoy. There might even be muffins!

Returning the raccoon is just one step in an effort to bring our canyons back to life. Due to the commitment of our city council, Open Space and Ecology Committee, and San Bruno Mountain Watch, the health of our canyons has improved considerably. The proposed law bans the sale of invasive species as identified by the California Invasive Plant Council and Plant Right’s “Priority Invasive Garden Plants” list at nurseries. Not paying your chamber dues to save money makes as much sense as stopping your watch to save time.

IRS ISSUES STANDARD MILEAGE RATES FOR 2019

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service today issued the 2019 optional standard mileage rates used to calculate the deductible costs of operating an automobile for business, charitable, or moving purposes. Beginning on Jan. 1, 2019, the standard mileage rates for the use of a car (also vans, pickups and panel trucks) will be:

- 58 cents per mile driven for business use, up 3.5 cents from the rate for 2018,
- 20 cents per mile driven for medical or moving purposes, up 2 cents from the rate for 2018, and
- 14 cents per mile driven in service of charitable organizations.

The business mileage rate increased 3.5 cents for business travel driven and 2 cents for medical and certain moving expense from the rates for 2018. The charitable rate is set by statute and remains unchanged.

LIPMAN MIDDLE SCHOOL TEACHES THE NEXT GENERATION OF SCIENTISTS

BY: LILLIAN MARKIND, President, Brisbane Elementary School District Board Trustee, lmarkind@brisbanesd.org

Lipman students are entering a new era as our middle school rolls out the Next Generation Science Standards (NGSS). Years in the making, this exciting new way to teach scientific concepts integrates ideas from physics, biology, and chemistry throughout the year at every grade level.

Prior to NGSS, topics were taught in a discrete, relatively unrelated way. In the sixth grade, students spent the year learning Earth Science. The seventh grade focused on Life Science and students in the eighth grade studied Physical Science. This method of segregating subjects allowed for very little overlap of scientific phenomena. NGSS provides a modern, integrated approach. Students in the sixth grade now study systems, patterns, structure, and function as it relates to energy, cells and organisms, and climate. Seventh grade concentrates on energy and matter, as well as cause and effect in the areas of chemistry, natural resources, and earth history. In the eighth grade, students focus their year on stability and change as well as scale as it relates to physics, evolution, and astronomy.

Each year, students have concepts of engineering and human impact weaved into their curriculum as well as a strong environmental focus to engage students with real-world situations and hopefully inspire an increased commitment to science education. They will also learn to analyze data to make evidence-based claims. ‘Concepts are taught based on current environmental issues and include a call to action where students are asked to engineer a solution to a problem.’ says Holly Rios, sixth-grade science teacher.

Lipman teachers are using the Green Ninja curriculum, developed at San Jose State University. This engaging learning environment provides many opportunities for students to study relatable problems and promotes social and environmental justice themes. It uses ‘storylines’ to include: scientific principles and communication, investigative methods and conservation, and computational thinking and design solutions.

Lipman science teachers are excited by the innovative, integrated curriculum and its benefits are already showing in our students.

SCHOLARSHIP NEWS

Our future is our youth. They are our future workforce and business leaders. A good education matters. Please donate to the Brisbane Chamber Scholarship Recognition Program to provide scholarships for deserving college-bound students. Every dollar contributed goes directly to worthy students; none is used to administer this program. We depend on the generosity of the business and residential community donating money to the scholarship fund and appreciate your donations. Donations can be made or contact the chamber office at 415-467-7293 or by e-mail brisbane@brisbanechamber.org or register on-line at https://brisbanechamberofcommerce.eventbrite.com Scholarship applications will be available in February on the web www.brisbanechamber.org, in the Chamber office and at the Brisbane Library.
